Marital Status and Living Arrangements: March 1980

INTRODUCTION

This report presents data on selected characteristics of persons based on the March 1980 Current Population Survey. (These data differ somewhat from the 1980 decennial census results.) Characteristics shown include sex, age, marital status, and living arrangements of the noninstitutional population by race and Spanish origin. The text of this report compares current data with comparable figures for earlier years. Highlights of the topics discussed include

- The median age at first marriage for women increased from 20.8 years in 1970 to 22.1 years in 1980.
- Among persons 20 to 24 years of age in 1980, one-half of the women and two-thirds of the men had not married for the first time.
- The ratio of divorced persons per 1,000 married persons who were living with their spouse rose from 47 per 1,000 in 1970 to 100 per 1,000 in 1980.
- One out of every 5 children lived with only one parent in 1980.
- Twenty-three percent of all households in 1980 consisted of one person living alone.
- The number of unmarried couples tripled between 1970 and 1980.

MARITAL STATUS

The most significant recent developments in the marital status of the population 15 years old and over are the trends of remaining single (never married) and the dissolution of marriage through divorce. Tables A, B, and C show different aspects of these trends including the postponement of first marriage, lifelong singleness, and the rise in divorce.

Median age at first marriage. As more young people are pursuing higher education and job opportunities, they are choosing to live independently and to postpone marriage. This movement away from early marriage is reflected in the age at which 50 percent of the men and women who marry do so for the first time (table A). This median age at first marriage increased from 20.8 years in 1970 to 22.1 years in 1980 for women and from 23.2 to 24.6 years for men. Around the turn of the century, the median age at first marriage was relatively high at 22 years for women and 26 years for men but by mid-century (1956), the median had declined to an all-time low of 20.1 years for women and 22.5 years for men. Since about 1960, the median age at first marriage has gradually increased.

Percent single. Postponement of first marriage is strikingly shown by the rapid increase over the past decade in the percent of young men and women who have never married (table B). One-half of the women aged 20 to 24 years in 1980 had not yet married for the first time, as compared with 36 percent in 1970. More than two-thirds of the men 20 to 24 years old in 1980 had never married, an increase from 55 percent in 1970. Even more significant, however, was the increase for never-married men and women in their late twenties. In 1970, 1 in every 10 women aged 25 to 29 years had never married but, by 1980, this proportion had doubled to 1 in every 5. For men in their late twenties in 1980, 1 in 3 had never married—a 70-percent increase over the 1 in 5 single in 1970.

Divorce. While increasing proportions of the adult population are postponing marriage or never marrying at all, other persons who have married are ending their marriages in divorce at very high rates. Trends in divorce can be recorded and monitored in various ways, one of which involves comparing the marital status distribution of the population at different points in time. Table C shows the trend in the divorce ratio (the ratio of divorced persons to the number of married persons who are living with their spouse at the time of the survey). In 1970, there were 47 divorced persons for every 1,000 married persons with spouse present, up from the 1960 ratio of 35 per 1,000. However, within the last 10 years this ratio rose to 100 per 1,000; in other words, for every 10 persons in 1980 who were in an intact marriage there was 1 person who was divorced and had not remarried.

The ratios for men and women differ considerably (79 per 1,000 for men vs. 120 per 1,000 for women) largely because of the higher incidence of remarriage for divorced men than for divorced women. Studies made from 1975 Current Population Survey data indicate that 5 out of 6 divorced men eventually remarry as compared with 3 out of 4 divorced women.

The highest divorce ratio is for Black persons (203 divorced per 1,000 married with spouse present as compared with 92 for White persons and 94 for persons of Spanish origin), and particularly for Black women who had a higher ratio than any other race or sex group (257 per 1,000). Of all the age groups, persons in the 30-to-44-year-old group had the highest divorce ratio (125 per 1,000).

LIVING ARRANGEMENTS

The living arrangements of the population covered in this report include children under 18 years by presence of parents, adults living alone, and unrelated persons of the opposite sex sharing living quarters.

Living arrangements of children. The increase in divorce has had a noticeable effect on the living arrangements of children. Between 1970 and 1980, the proportion of children under 18 years old living with two parents declined from 85 percent to 77 percent (table D). Even though the total number of children under 18 in the United States declined by 7.4 million during the 10-year period (a result of the falling birth rate), the number of children who lived with only one parent rose by 4 million (from 8,199,000 in 1970 up to 12,162,000 in 1980). Thus, in 1980, 1 out of every 5 children lived in a one-parent family. Ninety-two percent of the 12 million children in one-parent families lived with their mother, who very likely was either divorced or separated. Equal proportions of boys and girls lived with only one parent, but boys made up a higher proportion of children living with two parents or their fathers only.

While these statistics reflect the living arrangements of children at the time of the survey, they do not include all the children who have lived in broken homes at one stage or another during childhood, or those children who may experience such a condition in the future.

Living alone. Persons living alone (one-person households) represented 23 percent of all households in 1980. In the last decade, the number has grown from 10.9 million in 1970 to 17.8 million in 1980 (table E). Most of the growth has been among divorced or never-married persons and persons under 35 years old. Three times as many persons under 35 years lived alone in 1980 as in 1970 (4.8 million and 1.4 million, respectively). The number of divorced persons who lived alone grew from 1.5 million to 3.4 million during the same period. Although the increase in the number of persons living alone was not as dramatic for the older age groups, persons 45 years and older comprised 65 percent of the population living alone. Widowed persons constituted a larger proportion of all persons living alone than any other marital status category.

The majority of persons who lived alone were women (11.0 million women versus 6.8 million men). However, the number of men living alone increased by 92 percent between 1970 and 1980, while their female counterparts increased by 51 percent. Women who live alone tend to be widowed and/or elderly, while men who live alone are more likely to be young and never married.

Unmarried couples. Unmarried-couple households, by Census Bureau definition, are households occupied by two unrelated adults of the opposite sex, with or without the presence of children under 15 years old (table F). In 1980, the number of such couples had reached 1,560,000—three times the number in 1970 (523,000). Unmarried couples with no children comprised nearly three-fourths of the total and increased by 247 percent during the period. The number of households with children present doubled in the last 3 years alone, but still represented a smaller proportion of all unmarried-couple households in 1980 (27 percent) than in 1970 (38 percent).

Although unmarried-couple households may include such arrangements as an elderly woman who rents a room to a male college student or an elderly man who employs a live-in female nurse or housekeeper, these household compositions by no means represent the norm among the unmarried-couple households; only 1 percent of the unmarried-couple households had a person 65 years or older sharing living quarters with an unrelated person of the opposite sex who was under 35 years old. The partners were often in the same age group (indicated by the underlined numbers in table G), and the majority (63 percent) of all unmarried couples involved two adults who were under 35 years of age. In 1 of every 5 households, both unmarried partners were under 25 years of age.

Householder change. For several years the Census Bureau has been gradually moving away from the "head" of household or family concept (which was criticized because of its hierarchical implications) to the new term "householder." The householder refers to one of the persons in whose name the home is owned or rented. Prior to 1980, the husband in a married-couple household was always considered to be the "householder." Beginning in 1980, either the husband or the wife was listed as householder. Table H shows the impact of this change. Of the 48.2 million married-couple households in 1980, 1.6 million (3.4 percent) listed the wife as the householder. Young wives aged 25 to 34 represented one-fourth of all wives who were recorded as householders.

RELATED REPORTS

Data for 1980, together with historical data back to 1947, on households and families by type were published in Series P-20, No. 357, Households and Families, by Type: March 1980 (Advance Report). The estimates in the advance report may differ slightly from those published in this report as a correction was made to the procedures for inflating the survey results to independent population estimates. Projections of the number of households and families for the United States from 1979 to 1995 were presented in Series P-25, No. 805. Information on married couples was published in Series P-23, No. 77, Perspectives on American Husbands and Wives. Data on families maintained by women with no husband present were reported in Series P-23, No. 107, Families Maintained by Female-Householders: 1970-79.

Results of a study on marital history of men and women are provided in Series P-20, No. 297, Number, Timing, and Duration of Marriages and Divorces in the United States: June 1975 and Series P-20, No. 312, Marriage, Divorce, Widowhood, and Remarriage by Family Characteristics: June 1975.

Figures for 1979 on marital status and family status were issued in Series P-20, Nos. 349 and 352. Additional statistics for years since 1947 on subjects covered in this report have been published by the Bureau of the Census in other reports in Series P-20, and are listed at the end of this publication.

Statistics on marital status for 1970 for standard metropolitan statistical areas, counties, urbanized areas, cities, States, regions, and the United States are presented in 1970 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, Chapter B, "General Population Characteristics."

Detailed statistics on marital status and presence of spouse by age for 1970 for States and for large counties and standard metropolitan statistical areas are presented in Volume I, Chapter D, "Detailed Characteristics." Similar data for the United States and regions, for 1960, were published in 1960 Census of Population, Volume I, Characteristics of the Population, United States Summary.

The 1970 census report Series PC(2)-4B, Persons by Family Characteristics, presents statistics on the marital and family status of persons 14 years old and over, by age, race, and sex, for the United States as a whole and for urbanized areas, and on persons under 18 years old by presence and marital status of parents, for the United States by type of residence and for regions. In addition, this report shows all family members by age, sex, and family relationship by characteristics of the families of which they are members, including size of family, number of children, and education, occupation, and income of the family head.

The 1970 census report Series PC(2)-4C, Marital Status, shows detailed statistics on the marital status distribution of the population 14 years old and over by selected social and economic characteristics for the United States. Series PC(2)-4D, Age at First Marriage, contains detailed statistics for the United States on characteristics of persons 14 years old and over by age at first marriage, based on answers to questions on date of first marriage. In addition, the report shows average annual rates of first marriage per 1,000 single persons 14 to 79 years old in 1968 and 1969 for States. Statistics for 1970 on women by marital status, number of children ever born, and age at first marriage, are presented for the United States in Series PC(2)-3A, Women by Number of Children Ever Born.

Appendix A. Definitions and Explanations

Coverage. The population in this report includes the civilian noninstitutional population of the United States plus approximately 855,000 members of the Armed Forces in the United States living off post or with their families on post in 1980 but excludes all other members of the Armed Forces. However, the data in table A on median age at first marriage for men refer to the total male population which includes, in addition to the above, the male members of the Armed Forces overseas and in military barracks and similar quarters in the United States.

Symbols. A dash (—) represents zero or rounds to zero. The symbol "B" means that the base for the derived figure is less than 75,000. An "X" means not applicable, and "NA" means not available.

Rounding of estimates. Individual figures are rounded to the nearest thousand without being adjusted to group totals, which are independently rounded; percentages are based on the unrounded numbers.

Metropolitan-nonmetropolitan residence. The population residing in standard metropolitan statistical areas (SMSA's) constitutes the metropolitan population. Except in New England, an SMSA is a county or group of contiguous counties which contains at least one city of 50,000 inhabitants or more, or "twin cities" with a combined population of at least 50,000. In addition to the county, or counties, containing such a city or cities, contiguous counties are included in an SMSA if, according to certain criteria, they are essentially metropolitan in character and are socially and economically integrated with the central county. In New England, SMSA's consist of towns and cities, rather than counties. The metropolitan population in this report is based on SMSA's as defined in the 1970 census and does not include any subsequent additions or changes.

Comparability of metropolitan and nonmetropolitan data from the March 1980 CPS with data for previous years. Changes in CPS design and procedures over the last several years have made the annual series of sample population data for metropolitan and nonmetropolitan areas inconsistent. Analytic comparisons of year-to-year changes in these figures should be avoided. Trends in metropolitan and nonmetropolitan population growth over the 1970-80 period should not be appreciably affected by the procedural changes.

The major revisions to the CPS sample design and estimation methods have involved the expansion of the number of sample units from 55,000 housing units to 68,000 occupied households. This incorporation of approximately 10,000 supplemental housing units into the March CPS sample in 1977 was accompanied by new procedures for inflating the sample results to reflect national estimates. It was determined subsequent to the introduction of the additional sample that the new inflating (weighting) procedures used for processing both the March 1977 and March 1978 CPS supplement data had resulted in an apparent overestimate of the nonmetropolitan population and corresponding underestimate of the metropolitan population for those years. For the March 1979 CPS, another revision of the weighting process was introduced to correct the problem discovered in the earlier procedures. The result of this change was a large spurious increase in the metropolitan population and decrease in the nonmetropolitan population relative to March 1978 CPS levels.

The March 1980 CPS and March 1979 CPS metropolitan/nonmetropolitan population estimates also reflect other operational changes including the introduction of a coverage improvement sample designed to provide greater accuracy in survey estimation. The net effect of all changes in procedure was to increase the metropolitan area estimates. Research and detailed analysis of the impact of each procedural change on the population estimates is underway and the results will be issued in a forthcoming technical report.

Age. The age classification is based on the age of the person at the person's last birthday. The adult universe (i.e., population of marriageable age) now comprises persons 15 years old and over. Prior to 1980 the adult universe was 14 years old and over.

Race. The population is divided into three groups on the basis of race: White, Black, and "other races." The last category includes Indians, Japanese, Chinese, and any other race except White and Black.

Persons of Spanish origin. Persons of Spanish origin in this report were determined on the basis of a question that asked for self-identification of the person's origin or descent. Respondents were asked to select their origin (or the origin of some other household member) from a "flash card" listing ethnic origins. Persons of Spanish origin, in particular, were those who indicated that their origin was Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American, or some other Spanish origin. Persons of Spanish origin may be of any race.

Marital status. The marital status classification identifies four major categories: single (never married), married, widowed, and divorced. These terms refer to the marital status at the time of the enumeration.

The category "married" is further divided into "married, spouse present," "separated," and "other married, spouse absent." A person was classified as "married, spouse present" if the husband or wife was reported as a member of the household, even though he or she may have been temporarily absent on business or on vacation, visiting, in a hospital, etc., at the time of the enumeration. Persons reported as separated included those with legal separations, those living apart with intentions of obtaining a divorce, and other persons permanently or temporarily separated because of marital discord. The group "other married, spouse absent" includes married persons living apart because either the husband or wife was employed and living at a considerable distance from home, was serving away from home in the Armed Forces, had moved to another area, or had a different place of residence for any other reason except separation as defined above.

Husband in Armed Forces. When a woman was reported as married but her husband was not enumerated as a member of the same household, an additional question was asked to determine whether her husband was in the Armed Forces. Women who were reported as separated were not asked the additional question.

Age at first marriage. The median age at first marriage, as shown in this report, is an approximation derived indirectly from tabulations of marital status and age. In computing this median, several steps are involved. First, the expected proportion of young people who will ever marry during their lifetime is computed. Second, one-half this expected proportion is calculated. Third, the current age of young people who are at this halfway mark is computed. From the assumptions made and the procedures used, it follows that the date of the survey is also the date when this halfway mark is reached. One-half of the young people of the given age who it is assumed will ever get married had done so prior to the survey date and one-half are expected marry in years to come.

In estimating the proportion of young people who will eventually marry, errors of 3 or 4 percentage points would affect the final estimate of the median age at first marriage by only 0.1 or 0.2 of a year. For convenience, the proportion ever married among persons 45 to 54 years old was used. Other age combinations could have been used with little change in the results, so long as they included very few persons who would subsequently marry for the first time.

Household. A household consists of all the persons who occupy a housing unit. A house, an apartment or other group of rooms, or a single room, is regarded as a housing unit when it is occupied or intended for occupancy as separate living quarters; that is, when the occupants do not live and eat with any other persons in the structure and there is either (1) direct access from the outside or through a common hall or (2) a kitchen or cooking equipment for the exclusive use of the occupants.

A household includes the related family members and all the unrelated persons, if any, such as lodgers, foster children, wards, or employees who share the housing unit. A person living alone in a housing unit, or a group of unrelated persons sharing a housing unit as partners, is also counted as a household. The count of households excludes group quarters. Group quarters. Group quarters are defined in the Current Population Survey as noninstitutional living arrangements for groups not living in conventional housing units or groups living in housing units containing five or more persons unrelated to the person in charge. Beginning in 1972, inmates of institutions have not been included in the Current Population Survey.

Householder. The householder refers to the person (or one of the persons) in whose name the housing unit is owned or rented (maintained) or, if there is no such person, any adult member, excluding roomers, boarders, or paid employees. If the house is owned or rented jointly by a married couple, the householder may be either the husband or the wife. The person designated as the householder is the "reference person" to whom the relationship of all other household members, if any, is recorded.

Prior to 1980, the husband was always considered the household head (householder) in married-couple households. The number of householders is equal to the number of households. Also, the number of family householders is equal to the number of families.

Head versus householder. Beginning with the 1980 CPS, the Bureau of the Census discontinued the use of the terms "head of household" and "head of family." Instead, the terms "householder" and "family householder" are used. Recent social changes have resulted in greater sharing of household responsibilities among the adult members and, therefore, have made the term "head" increasingly inappropriate in the analysis of household and family data. Specifically, the Bureau has discontinued its longtime practice of always classifying the husband as the reference person (head) when he and his wife are living together.

In this report, the term "householder" is used in the presentation of data that had previously been presented with the designation "head". The householder is the first adult household member listed on the questionnaire. The instructions call for listing first the person (or one of the persons) in whose name the home is owned or rented. If a home is owned jointly by a married couple, either the husband or the wife may be listed first, thereby becoming the reference person, or householder, to whom the relationship of other household members is to be recorded.

Family. A family is a group of two or more persons (one of whom is the householder) related by birth, marriage, or adoption and residing together; all such persons (including related subfamily members) are considered as members of one family. Beginning with the 1980 CPS, unrelated subfamilies (referred to in the past as secondary families) are no longer included in the count of families, nor are the members of unrelated subfamilies included in the count of family members.

Family household. A family household is a household maintained by a family (as defined above), including among the household members any unrelated persons (unrelated subfamily members and/or secondary individuals) who may be residing there. The number of family households is equal to the number of families. The count of family household members differs from the count of family members, however, in that the family household members include all persons living in the household, whereas family members include only the householder and his/her relatives. (See the definition of Family.)

Related subfamily. A related subfamily is a married couple with or without children, or one parent with one or more own single (never married) children under 18 years old, living in a household and related to, but not including, the person or couple who maintains the household. The most common example of a related subfamily is a young married couple sharing the home of the husband's or wife's parents. The number of related subfamilies is not included in the count of families.

Unrelated subfamily. An unrelated subfamily (formerly called a secondary family) is a group of two or more persons who are related to each other by birth, marriage, or adoption, but who are not related to the householder. The unrelated subfamily may include persons such as guests, roomers, boarders, or resident employees and their relatives living in a household. The number of unrelated subfamily members is included in the number of household members but is not included in the count of family members.

Persons living with relatives in group quarters were formerly considered as members of unrelated subfamilies. However, the number of such unrelated subfamilies became so small (37,000 in 1967) that beginning with data for 1968 (and beginning with census data for 1960) the Bureau of the Census includes persons in these unrelated subfamilies in the count of secondary individuals.

Married couple. A married couple, as defined for census purposes, is a husband and wife enumerated as members of the same household. The married couple may or may not have children living with them. The expression "husband-wife" or "married-couple" before the term "household," "family," or "subfamily" indicates that the household, family, or subfamily is maintained by a husband and wife. The number of married couples equals the count of married-couple families plus related and unrelated married-couple subfamilies.

Unmarried couple. An unmarried couple is composed of two unrelated adults of the opposite sex (one of whom is the householder) who share a housing unit with or without the presence of children under 15 years old.

Unrelated individuals. Unrelated individuals are persons of any age (other than inmates of institutions) who are not living with any relatives. An unrelated individual may be (1) a person living alone or with nonrelatives only, (2) a roomer, boarder, or resident employee with no relatives in the household, or (3) a group quarters member who has no relatives living with him/her. Thus, a widow who occupies her house alone or with one or more other persons not related to her, a roomer not related to anyone else in the housing unit, a maid living as a member of her employer's household but with no relatives in the household, and a resident staff member in a hospital living apart from any relatives are all examples of unrelated individuals.

Nonfamily householder. A nonfamily householder (formerly called a primary individual) is a person maintaining a household while living alone or with nonrelatives only.

Secondary individual. A secondary individual is a person in a household or group quarters such as a guest, roomer, boarder, or resident employee (excluding nonfamily householders and inmates of institutions) who is not related to any other person in the household or group quarters. (See section on unrelated subfamily for slight change in coverage of secondary individuals in 1968.)

Own children and related children. "Own" children in a family are sons and daughters, including stepchildren and adopted children, of the householder. Similarly, "own" children in a subfamily are sons and daughters of the married couple or parent in the subfamily. (All children shown as members of related subfamilies are own children of the person maintaining the subfamily.) "Related" children in a family include own children and all other children in the household who are related to the householder by birth, marriage, or adoption. For each type of family unit identified in the CPS, the count of own children under 18 years old is limited to single (never married) children; however, "own children under 25" and "own children of any age," as the terms are used here, include all children regardless of marital status. The totals include never-married children living away from home in college dormitories.

The count of related children in families was formerly restricted to single (never married) children. However, beginning with data for 1968 the Bureau of the Census includes ever-married children under the category of related children. This change added approximately 20,000 children to the category of related children in March 1968.

Appendix B. Source and Reliability of the Estimates

SOURCE OF DATA

Estimates in this report were primarily derived from the Current Population Survey. Additional data were obtained from 1970 Decennial Census. The Current Population Survey and the Decennial Census are programs conducted by the Bureau of the Census.

Current Population Survey (CPS). The monthly CPS deals mainly with labor force data for the civilian noninstitutional population. Questions relating to labor force participation are asked every month about each member 14 years old and older in each sample household. In addition, supplementary questions are asked each March about household and family characteristics. Most of the CPS estimates in this report are based on data obtained in March 1980. Some estimates are based on data obtained in March for earlier years. Estimates developed from the supplementary questions and included in this report include persons in the Armed Forces living off post or with their families on post.

The present CPS sample was initially selected from the 1970 census files with coverage in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. The sample is continually updated to reflect new construction. The current CPS sample is located in 629 areas comprising 1,133 counties, independent cities, and minor civil divisions in the Nation. In this sample, approximately 68,000 occupied households were eligible for interview. Of this number, about 3,000 occupied units were visited but interviews were not obtained because the occupants were not found at home after repeated calls or were unavailable for some other reason.

The following table provides a description of some aspects of the CPS sample designs in use during the referenced data collection periods.

The estimation procedure used for the monthly CPS data involves the inflation of weighted sample results to independent estimates of the civilian noninstitutional population of the United States by age, race, and sex. These independent estimates are based on statistics from decennial censuses; statistics on births, deaths, immigration, and emigration; and statistics on the strength of the Armed Forces. For the March supplement data, persons in the Armed Forces living off post or with their families on post are also included and the estimation procedure involves a further adjustment so that husband and wife of a household receive the same weight.

Decennial Census of Population. Decennial census data in this report are based on the complete count or on the sample associated with the census. The 1970 census data are from special tabulations developed from the 5-percent sample associated with the 1970 Census of Population and Housing. Descriptions of samples from the census are found in the appropriate census publications.

RELIABILITY OF THE ESTIMATES

Since the CPS estimates were based on a sample, they may differ somewhat from the figures that would have been obtained if a complete census had been taken using the same questionnaires, instructions, and enumerators. There are two types of errors possible in an estimate based on a sample survey: sampling and nonsampling. The standard errors provided for this report primarily indicate the magnitude of the sample errors. They also partially measure the effect of some nonsampling errors in response and enumeration, but do not measure any systematic biases in the data. The full extent of the nonsampling error is unknown. Consequently, particular care should be exercised in the interpretation of figures based on a relatively small number of cases or on small differences between estimates.

Nonsampling variability. Nonsampling errors can be attributed to many sources, e.g., inability to obtain information about all cases in the sample, definitional difficulties, differences in the interpretation of questions, inability or unwillingness to provide correct information on the part of respondents, inability to recall information, errors made in collection such as in recording or coding the data, errors made in processing the data, errors made in the estimating values for missing data, and failure to represent all units with the sample (undercoverage).

Undercoverage in the CPS results from missed housing units and missed persons within sample households. Overall undercoverage, compared to the level of the decennial census, is about 5 percent. It is known that CPS undercoverage varies with age, sex, and race. Generally, undercoverage is larger for males than for females and larger for Blacks and other races than for Whites. Ratio estimation to independent age-sex-race population controls, as described previously, partially corrects for the bias due to survey undercoverage. However, biases exist in the estimates to the extent that missed persons in missed households or missed persons in interviewed households have different characteristics than interviewed person in the same age-sex-race group. Further, the independent population controls used have not been adjusted for undercoverage in the 1970 census, which was estimated at 2.5 percent of the population, with similar undercoverage differentials by age, sex, and race as in CPS.

A coverage improvement sample was included in computing the estimates beginning in 1978, in order to provide coverage of mobile homes and new construction housing units which previously had no chance for selection in the CPS sample. This sample is composed of approximately 450 sample housing units which represent 237,000 occupied mobile homes and 600,000 new construction housing units. These new construction units are composed of those units where building permits were issued prior to January 1970 and construction was not completed by the time of the 1970 census (i.e., April 1970). The extent of other sources of housing undercoverage is unknown but believed to be small. The inclusion of this coverage improvement sample in the CPS does not have a significant effect on the estimates.

Sampling variability. The standard errors given in the following tables are primarily measures of sampling variability, that is, of the variations that occurred by chance because a sample rather than the entire population was surveyed. The sample estimate and its estimated error enable one to construct confidence intervals, ranges that would include the average result of all possible samples with a known probability. For example, if all possible samples were selected, each of these surveyed under essentially the same general conditions and using the same sample design, and an estimate and its estimated standard error were calculated from each sample, then:

1. Approximately 68 percent of the intervals from one standard error below the estimate to one standard error above the estimate would include the average result of all possible samples.

2. Approximately 90 percent of the intervals from 1.6 standard errors below the estimate to 1.6 standard errors above the estimate would include the average result of all possible samples.
3. Approximately 95 percent of the intervals from two standard errors below the estimate to two standard errors above the estimate would include the average result of all possible samples.

The average estimate derived from all possible samples is or is not contained in any particular computed interval. However, for a particular sample, one can say with a specified confidence that the average estimate derived from all possible samples is included in the confidence interval.

All the statements of comparison appearing in the text are significant at a 1.6 standard error level or better, and most are significant at a level of more than 2.0 standard errors. This means that for most differences cited in the text, the estimated difference is greater than twice the standard error of the difference. Statements of comparison qualified in some way (e.g., by use of the phrase, "some evidence") have a level of significance between 1.6 and 2.0 standard errors.

Note when using small estimates. Summary measures such as medians, rates, and percent distributions are shown in the report only when the base is 75,000 or greater. Because of the large standard errors involved, there is little chance that summary measures would reveal useful information when computed on a smaller base. Estimated numbers are shown, however, even though the relative standard errors of these numbers are larger than those for corresponding percentages. These smaller estimates are provided primarily to permit such combinations of the categories to serve each data user's needs.

Standard errors for data based on the decennial census. Sampling errors of all data from the sample of the 1970 Decennial Census shown in this report are small enough to be disregarded.

Standard error tables and their use. In order to derive standard errors that would be applicable to a large number of estimates and could be prepared at a moderate cost, a number of approximations were required. Therefore, instead of providing an individual standard error for each estimate, generalized sets of standard errors are provided for various types of characteristics. As a result, the sets of standard errors provided give an indication of the order of magnitude of the standard error of an estimate rather than the precise standard error.

The figures presented in tables B-1 through B-4 are approximations to standard errors of various estimates shown in this report. Estimated standard errors for specific characteristics cannot be obtained from tables B-1 through B-4 without the use of the factors in table B-5. These factors must be applied to the generalized standard errors in order to adjust for the combined effect of sample design and estimating procedure on the value of the characteristic. Standard errors for intermediate values not shown in the generalized tables of standard errors may be approximated by interpolation.

Two parameters are used (denoted "a" and "b") to calculate standard errors for each type of characteristic; they are presented in table B-6. These parameters were used to calculate the standard errors in tables B-1 and B-4 and to calculate the factors in table B-5. They also may be used to directly calculate the standard errors for estimated numbers and percentages. Direct computation of the standard errors will give more accurate results than the use of the standard error tables. Methods for direct computation are given in the following sections.

Standard errors of estimated numbers. The approximate standard error, σ_x , of an estimated number shown in this report can be obtained in two ways. It may be obtained by use of the formula

$$\sigma_x = f\sigma \quad (1)$$

where f is the appropriate factor from table B-5, and σ is the standard error on the estimate obtained by interpolation from table B-1 or B-2. Alternatively, standard errors may be approximated by formula (2), from which the standard errors were calculated in tables B-1 and B-2. Use of this formula will provide more accurate results than the use of formula (1) above.

$$\sigma_x = \sqrt{ax^2 + bx} \quad (2)$$

Here x is the size of the estimate and a and b are the parameters in table B-6 associated with the particular type of characteristic.

Standard errors of estimated percentages. The reliability of an estimated percentage, computed using sample data for both numerator and denominator, depends on both the size of the percentage and the size of the total upon which this percentage is based. Estimated percentages are relatively more reliable than the corresponding estimates of the numerators of the percentages, particularly if the percentages are 50 percent or more. When the numerator and denominator of the percentage are in different categories, use the factor or parameters indicated by the numerator. The approximate standard error, $\sigma_{(x,p)}$, of an estimated percentage can be obtained by use of the formula

$$\sigma_{(x,p)} = f\sigma \quad (3)$$

In this formula f is the appropriate factor from table B-5 and σ is the standard error on the estimate from either table B-3 or B-4. Alternatively, standard errors may be approximated by formula (4), from which the standard errors in tables B-3 and B-4 were calculated; direct computation will give more accurate results than use of the standard error tables and the factors.

$$\sigma_{(x,p)} = \sqrt{\frac{b}{x} (p) (100-p)} \quad (4)$$

Here x is the size of the subclass of persons or families and unrelated individuals which is the base of the percentage, p is the percentage ($0 \leq p \leq 100$), and b is the parameter in table B-6 associated with the particular type of characteristic in the numerator of the percentage.

with spouse present cannot be calculated directly from the standard error tables. The estimate involves the ratio of the total persons divorced, x , to the total number of married persons with spouse present, y , multiplied by 1,000. The standard error of this estimate is calculated by the following formula:

The standard errors of the estimates of the total number of divorced persons, σ_x , and the standard error of the total number of married persons with spouse present, σ_y , should both be calculated using table B-1 or B-2 and factor table B-5 or formula (2).

Illustration of the use of standard error tables. Table F of this report shows that there were 1,560,000 unmarried-couple households as of March 1980. Interpolation in table B-1 shows the standard error (σ_x) on an estimate of this size to be approximately 72,000. is 0.6, thus the standard error is approximately $43,000 \pm 72,000 \times 0.6$. The 68-percent confidence interval as shown by the data is from 1,517,000 to 1,603,000. Therefore, a conclusion that the average estimate derived from all possible samples lies within a range computed in this way would be correct for roughly 68 percent of all possible samples. Similarly, we could conclude with 95-percent confidence that the average estimate derived from all possible samples lies within the interval from 1,474,000 to 1,646,000, i.e., $1,560,000 \pm (2 \times 43,000)$. As an alternative, using formula (2) and the parameters $a = -.000010$ and $b = 1389$ from table B-6 gives an estimate of the standard error to be 46,000.

Table F also shows that of these 1,560,000 unmarried-couple households, 1,136,000 or 72.8 percent have no children present. Table B-6 shows the b parameter for total or White families, households, and unrelated individuals to be 1389; using formula (4), the standard error on an estimate of 72.8 percent is

$$\sqrt{\frac{1389}{1,560,000} (72.8) (100 - 72.8)} \doteq 1.3 \text{ percent}$$

Consequently, the 68-percent confidence interval is from 71.5 to 74.1 percent. Therefore, a conclusion that the average estimate derived from all possible samples lies within a range computed in this way would be correct for roughly 68 percent of all possible samples. Similarly, we could conclude with 95-percent confidence that the average estimate derived from all possible samples lies within the interval from 70.2 to 75.4 percent, i.e., $72.8 \pm (2 \times 1.3)$ percent. As an alternative, tables B-3 and B-5 can be used to compute an estimated standard error of $2.2 \times 0.6 = 1.3$ percent on the estimate of 72.8 percent.

Standard error of a difference. For a difference between two sample estimates, the standard error is approximately equal to where σ_x and σ_y are the standard errors of the estimates x and y ; the estimates can be of numbers, percents, ratios, etc. This will represent the actual standard error quite accurately for the difference between two estimates of the same characteristic in two different areas, or for the difference between separate and uncorrelated characteristics in the same area. If, however, there is a high positive correlation between the two characteristics, the formula will overestimate the true standard error.

Illustration of the computation of the standard error of a difference. Table E of this report shows that in 1980, there were 5,627,000 single (never married) persons and 3,377,000 divorced persons living alone. The apparent difference between single persons and divorced persons living alone is 2,250,000.

Using formula (2) and the appropriate parameters from table B-6, the standard error on the estimates of 5,627,000 single persons living alone is 138,000. Similarly, the approximate standard error on the estimate of 3,377,000 divorced persons living alone is 108,000. Therefore, from formula (6) the approximate standard error on the estimated difference of 2,250,000 persons is about

$$\sqrt{(138,000)^2 + (108,000)^2} \doteq 175,000$$

This means the 68-percent confidence interval for the difference is from 2,075,000 to 2,425,000. Therefore, a conclusion that the average difference derived from all possible samples lies within a range computed in this way would be correct for roughly 68 percent of all possible samples. Similarly, we could conclude with 95-percent confidence that the average difference derived from all possible samples lies within the interval from 1,900,000 to 2,600,000 (using twice the standard error).
