Reference Maps
Reference Maps

Largest Metropolitan Areas, 2000
With at Least 4 Million People

- County
- Independent City
- Metropolitan area boundary
- State boundary
- County boundary

Metropolitan areas shown are as of January 1, 2000. The New England County Metropolitan Areas (NECMA) are used as alternatives to the city- and town-based metropolitan areas in the Boston area and in Connecticut. Atlanta, GA is a Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA). Other areas shown are Consolidated Metropolitan Statistical Areas (CMSAs).

Los Angeles-Riverside-Orange County, CA

Houston-Galveston-Brazoria, TX

U.S. Census Bureau
Maps represent county and statistically equivalent entity boundaries as of January 1, 2000.
Maps represent county and statistically equivalent entity boundaries as of January 1, 2000.
Maps represent county and statistically equivalent entity boundaries as of January 1, 2000.
Map 5
Maps represent county and statistically equivalent entity boundaries as of January 1, 2000. An asterisk (*) identifies an incorporated place that is legally independent of any county.
Maps represent county and statistically equivalent entity boundaries as of January 1, 2000. An asterisk (*) identifies an incorporated place that is legally independent of any county.
Maps represent county and statistically equivalent entity boundaries as of January 1, 2000. An asterisk (*) identifies an incorporated place that is legally independent of any county.
Maps represent county and statistically equivalent entity boundaries as of January 1, 2000.